WAS BUNTINGTON KILLED? The Friends of the Dead Back Clerk

Intimate That Sie Was. Council Blurrs, lows, Dec. 18 -Startling developments were made resterday afternoon in relation to the Huntington suicide, which resulted in Huntington's friends employing an attorney to look out for their interests during the inquest. The new features was the suggestion given color by friends of the dead bank clerk that he did not suicide, but on the contrary was shot by someone in the room at the time Huntington begun to shoot. This theory was ad-vanced when it was learned that the bullet in Huntington's brain was much smaller than the ones fired into the two bond company's examiners and that the wound in his head was not powder burned, as it was thought would be the case if the revolver had been held in his own hands. There was no other evidence to bear out the theory.

The pair left New York for Mexico last April, after playing a series of engagements throughout the state. Mrs. Guibal, who, with her two daughters. Hortense, age 18, and Lulu, age 13, and a son, is living here, was married to Guibal in Dublin, Ireland, when he was principal of a col-lege of languages. Tiring of Ireland he went to London, where he became the English correspondent of a French paper, and adapter from the French for the English stage. As a mem-ber of the Savage club, he became a fast friend of David Chrystie Murray, the novelist, now lecturing in comedy actor. At that time Verbeck, the wizard, arrived in London from Paris, and Guibal joined him and, after learning a good deal of sleight of hand, he perfected a very clever act of mental transference, or "physocronitism," and advertised for a "young and beautiful girl." Marie. or, as she was then called, "Blanche," Greville answered the advertise-ment and, after three months' re-bearsal, the two went upon the road, opening in Liver-pool. ## WILL VOTE EARLY.

Passed on January 7.

The House Committee on Rules | marks, the senate, at 4:55 p. m., went so Decides.

A SHARP PROTEST.

Cause Another Panic-

Washington, Dec. 18.—Speaker Crisp and his associates on the house committee on rules determined yesterday on a special rule by which Senator Carlisle's bill for currency original purpose of securing a vote before the holidays was given up. Instead of that it was arranged that the general debate should begin today and continue to the recess. When congress reassembles on January 3, the currency debate will be resumed. the 4th and 5th being given to debate under the five minute rule. The vote will probably be taken on Monday. January 7. The minority members of the banking and currency committee severely criticize the Carlisle bill. They say "the whole action of the party majority of the committee was most extraordinary and not approved by its voting majority. Secretary Carlisle read a part of the bill on the first day of his address to the committee, saying he had not finished dictating it, and would bring it in when he lin ished his address to the committee on the following day, which he did. It was not again read or in any manner considered in committee, and an opportunity to consider or amend it was refused to all members, Democrats and Republicans alike. On Saturday at 4 p. m. immediately upon the close of the examination of Mr. St. John of New York, a motion was made to close the hearing and go into executive session. Upon the attempt of a member of the m nority to make a motion to take up the bill for consideration they were informed by the chairman, Mr. Springer, that the Democratic party majority had c neluded not to submit the bill to the committee for any motion whatever, but to report it to the house on Monday, and that each mem-ber could offer what amendments he chose in the house. It is the opinion of a number of the most clear-headed and eminent financiers in the country that if the Carlisle bill was enacted into a law within twenty days that it would precipitate a panie far more severe than that of 1893, as it would compel the forced sale upon the market of nearly $200,000,000 of United States bonds within six months.

"The passage of the Carlisle bill may meet some political exigency of which we do not know, but we do know its passage will aggravate rather than relieve the perplexities of the financial situation, especially that of the United States treasury. "The United States legal tender notes withdrawn from circulation in case all existing national banks take out all the circulation permitted under the bill would only be $151,-000,000, still leaving $350,000 to vex the treasury. This would not afford any substantial relief to the constant drain of gold from the treasury. It would make still more conspicuous and thus more urgent the demand for rold upon the treasury, and the notes issued under the bill would make confusion worse confounded in the currency, by adding from one to fortyfive more kinds of money to these already existing. "Twice within a short time has the house declared its unalterable opposition to allowing state banks to issue currency notes-once on June 5, ngainst state banks of the gallant and versatile gentleman from Illinois, the Hon. William M. Springer, on June 6, 1894, by a vote to repeal the ten per cent tax of 102 for to 173 against Therefore, we protest against again consuming the time of the house in a profitless discussion of that objectionable section of the Carlisle bill. Finally we are of the opinion it is not safe for the bouse to enter upon the line of the legislation proposed until some bill is brought before it that has received far more attention than the Carlisle bill, and we recommend it to be indefinitely postponed."

The senate then resumed consideration of the Nicaraguan canal bill and Mr. Peffer of Kansas addressed the senate. He did not believe that the country was in a condition to buy the canal and issue bonds for its payment.
